The Hon. S. Symington
Senate Building
Washington, D. C.

Dear Senator:

I read an article in TRUE Magazine, June 1961 Edition pertaining to Russia's early attempts to launch an astronaut.

The article written by Mr. James Mills tells how Alex Ledonsky was killed at Kapustin Yar in 1957, Serenty Schibarin was killed the following February and in January 1959 Andrei Mitkov who was killed shortly after launching.

I am interested to know if this is true and has
it been officially recorded as true by the government of the United States.

Very truly yours,

/s/ Leo C. Koenig

Honorable Stuart Symington
 United States Senate

Dear Senator Symington:

With reference to the query from your constituent, Mr. Keenig, we have no additional information beyond that furnished to the Space and Astronautics Committee early in May. We continue to believe that the Soviets attempted no manned space launches prior to the Gagarin flight.

The information in the article alluded to by Mr. Keenig is similar to information in articles by Jack Anderson and Drew Pearson during April and May of this year. All these articles appear to stem from information released by the Italian News Agency, Continentale, in December 1959. We have no reason to believe any of them to be valid.

Sincerely,

Enclosure: Letter to Senator Symington
 from Mr. Leo C. Koenig

Remarks: To A/DCI :

This entire matter was reviewed again in OSI and [] indicated that Pete Scoville thought it better to simply furnish Senator Symington with the facts without suggesting a draft response to the constituent. OSI has carefully considered whether or not the position expressed is classified and they believe it is not.
